

our children

The children are the most precious treasure of “Casa de la Esperanza” and the primary reason we are here. Their stories are a daily reminder of the war between good and evil and of the reality that the kingdom of God is gaining territory. Our children find themselves, without fault of their own, devastated by the darkness of the world.

They come from situations of hardship, poverty, abuse, hurt, and broken families to a place where they can encounter God’s redeeming love for them. Of course, they are but a small percentage of the children in the world that have experienced those struggles. However, they are a visible representation of God’s great redeeming mercy.

They are the children who have been wounded and are experiencing the healing of Christ at “Casa de la Esperanza.” They are the ones transformed by the knowledge of God’s love for them. They are the ones who will go forward proclaiming the reign of God and transforming their community. There are no doubt that the future leaders of Mexico are now being raised at Casa, for it is the transformation and healing of wounded hearts what gives birth to great leaders.

Our children are beautiful mirrors of God’s image. It is a joy to see them being good brothers and sisters to each other, hard-working students, and examples to other children at school. They give us reasons to proclaim with confidence daily, “Our God reigns!”
