

our heritage

México is a remarkable country. When the first European explorers saw it more than five hundred years ago, they were astonished by its passion, richness, and beauty.

Their minds were so overwhelmed by the magnificence of this land that they wondered if they had strayed into a dream. There was a little bit of everything in this precious New World: ancient cities, misty mountains, fertile valleys, incredible creatures, and enough wonders to satisfy even the most adventurous spirits.

Today, the world has come to know Mexico a little better, and it has fallen in love with it as well. Every year, Mexico receives countless visitors from far away countries and it never fails to fascinate them. No matter how we look at Mexico, there is always something new and unexpected, there is always something old and mysterious, no matter how we look at it, Mexico is beautiful, and we want our children to be proud of their country.
